Kiera Hepford

Program Director, International Palliative Care Initiative Open Society Foundation

Kiera Hepford is the Program Coordinator of the International Palliative Care Initiative (IPCI) of the Public Health Program at the Open Society Foundation. She assists with the development of IPCI's strategy and program development, coordinates IPCI's Salzburg and OSI Seminar series, collaborates with Soros National Foundations, grantees and donors, and represents IPCI on Public Health Program task forces. In addition, she is also responsible for coordinating the program's grant making activities that provide funding to individuals, associations, and organizations working to develop the palliative care capacity and services within countries in Central and Eastern Europe, the former Soviet Union, Southeast Asia, South Africa, Southern Africa, and East Africa. Prior to her joining OSI, she worked for several years in the editorial department of a book publishing company. Kiera received a Bachelor of Arts degree in History and English Literature from the University of Rochester.
